High Quality Plant Identification Signs

- Our signs are used for permanently identifying plants and are suitable for heavy-duty, commercial outdoor use by botanical gardens, zoos, hotels, malls, colleges, private growers/collectors, nurseries, amusement parks, golf courses, public parks, resorts, etc.
- Signs are made of heavy-duty 1/8" thick laminated UV- and weather-resistant, outdoor-rated plastic material.
- Colors available are: Black (mildly textured surface) with white letters, White (matte) with black letters, Forest Green (glossy surface) with white letters, Apple Green (matte surface) with white letters, and Red (matte surface) with white letters.
- We offer three different sign mounting systems. All use galvanized steel, with a 30° bend at the top
 - A. Type A Stakes are attached using U-V resistant epoxy without a supporting back plate.
 - B. Type B Stakes have a steel plate with flanges on the sides and bottom, where the sign plate is inserted. These stakes have a point at the bottom, making inserting into the ground easier.
 - C. Type C Stakes have a flat metal plate at the top where the customer attaches the sign plate using whatever method is desired
- Signs are engraved to your specifications with your text on our computerized engraving machine. Items that may be included on signs are genus, species, common name, family, origin or accession number. What to put on the signs is up to you.
- The fonts are scalable and may be italicized, engraved in all CAPITAL LETTERS or underlined if desired, to set various lines apart.

ORDERING:

Because every sign and order is different, there is no standard "Form" for ordering. To make a sign order, send us an email or letter including the following.

1. A sketch (or description in words) showing the typical layout of your signs, indicating the relative size of each line and where italics or capital letters are desired. Every customer's orders are individualized with the text and layout you want.
2. The number of signs in this order.
3. The size and color of the sign plates you are ordering.
4. The type of stake mounting system desired, A, B or C (if any), or whether holes or rounded corners are wanted.
5. An Excel file or Word document showing the text you want on each sign in the following sample format (each row for a separate sign):

Column 1 shows what you want on the top line of each sign

Column 2 shows what you want on the 2nd line

Column 3 shows what you want on the lower left or bottom line

Column 4 shows what you want on the lower right corner (if applicable)

When entering your data, if you want a particular line in italics, type the words in italics, or if you want a line in all Capital letters, type them in all capital letters. When typing scientific names, the Genus should start with a capital letter, with all the letters in the species in all lower case letters. When typing Common Names, the first letter of each common name word should be capitalized.

Indicate how you will be paying for your order. We accept checks, VISA, MasterCard, American Express, PayPal and purchase orders. To pay by credit card, please call with your account number, name on card, expiration date and security code, card billing address, along with the total amount of your order. Do not email credit card information. When ordering by email, please ask for a return email confirming receipt of the order.

STAKE COMPARISONS

TYPE A STAKES

Advantages:

- Looks clean
- No rivets or frame to distract
- Entire plate surface is available for engraving
- Can be re-used, but some preparation of stake is required before epoxying.
- Stakes come with sign plates already attached with epoxy
- Less expensive than Types B or C
- Stake may be mounted in concrete

Disadvantages:

- Plates may have to be re-epoxied after a few years
- Breakage/damage from impact from garden equipment, visitors, etc. is possible
- Bottom end of stake is square, not as easy to push into the ground as Types B and C

TYPE B STAKES:

Advantages:

- Maximum protection of sign plate from mechanical damage
 - More expensive than stake Types A and C
 - Bottom end of stake is pointed
 - Can be re-used if plant dies
 - Stake may be mounted in concrete
- ### Disadvantages:
- About 1/4" of the sign plate border is not available for engraving (frame at bottom and sides)
 - More expensive than stake types A and C
 - Purchaser inserts sign plates into frame (can be secured by pinching upper corners of frame with pliers)

TYPE C STAKES:

Advantages:

- Looks clean
 - No frame around sign to distract
 - Entire plate surface is available for engraving
 - User can choose own mounting method (epoxy, 2-sided tape, pop-rivets, etc.)
 - Metal plate behind sign protects from mechanical damage
 - Can be re-used if plant dies.
 - Bottom end of stake is pointed
 - Stake may be mounted in concrete
- ### Disadvantages:
- Cost is higher than Type A stake
 - User attaches sign to metal plate as desired

NO STAKES:

Advantages:

- User can attach sign to any surface or locally obtained stake or post as desired
- Holes can be drilled for hanging by wire or other method
- Entire plate surface is available for engraving
- Shipping without stakes is less expensive than for signs with stakes

Disadvantages:

- If no holes are ordered with the signs, customer needs to do this if desired.
